GRAND JURY FILES REPORT

TRIALS WERE INDICTED FOR MURDER OF "CHATT" BULLOCK.

Physician Indicted on Serious Charge. Jury Fails to Indict the West Virginia Tax Payers Association.

The January term of the criminal court was convened yesterday morning at 9:30 o'clock with both a new judge and a new prosecutor on the job. Judge Alan Robinson opened the court promptly and immediately gave a lengthy charge to the grand jury, and one that fully covered all phases of the cases that the body would have to consider. The jury was then closed in private rooms and Prosecutor Robert Addelman conducted the investigation into the different cases that were brought up for consideration.

Shortly before 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon the grand jury filed its report, thereby indicting, among other prisoners, John Blattner, Martin Loftus and Thomas Gattrell, for the murder of "Chatt" Bullock. These men will be given a hearing early in the term and there seems little doubt but that they will be convicted, as the evidence that was given by eye witnesses of the affair at the coroner's inquest, will be sufficient in itself to convict them.

Another feature of the report was the failure of the grand jury to indict the West Virginia Tax Payers Association for a violation of the Corrupt Practice Act, this association having failed to file the account of their campaign for expenditures in the recent wet and dry election. It was stated by several attorneys last night that the evidence submitted against the association was quite sufficient to indict, as it was shown that George McDowell, the manager of the association, had paid out money for advertising during the campaign. The reason for the finding of a not true bill is not known.

The following true bills were returned by the jury:

State vs. Tony Smickel, misdemeanor, carrying concealed weapons.
State vs. John Kordic, misdemeanor, carrying concealed weapons.
State vs. John Dwyer, misdemeanor, carrying concealed weapons.
State vs. William Ayers, misdemeanor, attempting to defraud the Palace Furniture Company out of household goods.
State vs. Leslie Hopwood, felony, stealing bicycle.
State vs. Peter Hines and Bernard Hyle, felony, stealing fourteen barrels of apples.
State vs. Wilbur Simpson, felony, perjury.
State vs. Wilbur Simpson, misdemeanor, perjury.
State vs. Minnie Arnett alias Lucile Barker, misdemeanor, fornication and adultery.
State vs. John Blattner, felony, murder.
State vs. Martin Loftus, felony, murder.
State vs. Thomas Gattrell, felony, murder.
State vs. Dr. H. P. Campbell, felony, abortion.

The last indictment came as a great surprise to all the court officials, as the judge and prosecutor, as the defendant had just concluded giving his testimony in the Bullock case, he having been one of the physicians that assisted in performing the autopsy.

The not true bills returned by the jury were:

State vs. George McDowell, misdemeanor, for failing to file the account of the West Virginia Tax Payers Association, to file an account of the expenditures of the association during the recent wet and dry election.
State vs. Excell Ross, felony, stealing a bicycle.
State vs. Charles Kemper, charged on three counts for stealing a pipe.
State vs. Steve Peters, misdemeanor, pistol totting.
State vs. Robert Harker, misdemeanor, larceny.

The case of the state against Steve Peters, charged with pistol totting, in which a not true bill was found, is the first instance where a grand jury failed to indict when the evidence was found on the person of the prisoner after his arrest.

The criminal court docket will be called Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock.
